CLASS HISTORY

PHYLLIS AUSTIN

We all had waited twelve long years for the Memorable Day, September 6, 1943, when with books clutched in our hot little hands and bewilderment written all over our faces, we had finished our first day of exploring the vastness of Memorial High School.

Included in this group was Al Gauthier, "Gaut," after careful consideration was elected president of our freshmen class with William Washburn as vice-president and Jean Dewhurst and Lee Norton as secretary and treasurer respectively.

The outstanding event of the year was the Acquaintance Social where many a green frosh turned a brilliant red.

In our second, not quite so bewildering year, "Al" Gauthier was again elected president with William Washburn as vice-president, Patricia Charbonneau as secretary, and Daniel Anacki as treasurer. By far the most outstanding event of the year was the arrival of Joy Cobb from Woodstock, Vt. (Vermont, that is!). Another newcomer was faculty member Mr. Philip Johnson. Although Mr. Johnson stayed but one year, he will not be forgotten by the class of '47. We welcomed another addition to the faculty when Miss Dorothy Wetherell became our sophomore English teacher. Miss Wetherell won many friends with her wonderful personality and all around teaching ability. Last but not least came Miss Teresa Kelly, who took Miss Armitage's place, when she joined the Red Cross.

Next came the year of our Junior Prom, and, as in the two previous years, Al Gauthier was elected president, George Wood was voted vice-president, Barbara Martin secretary, and Ovell Bennett as treasurer. Crowding our Junior Prom for place in our list of events was the arrival of Mr. Elliot Allen, teacher of American history and biology. Mr. Allen is perhaps more popular with the feminine (including Barbara Ronan) members of our class, but that is easily understood after one look at his lanky 6' plus build.

At last, the year of all years, we are now seniors. In this our year of glory, Bill (I'm not a wolf, I'm just friendly) Washburn was elected president, Jim Hargraves vice-president, Claire O'Melia secretary, and Carl Metzler treasurer. This year we had the best Middleboro High record in basketball ever compiled when we finished the first eighteen games undefeated and won the South Shore Tournament. But all good things must come to an end as Middleboro lost to Reading in the first round of the Boston Garden Tourney.

Our valedictorian is Evelyn (my favorite flavor is Almond) Snow, while our salutatorian is Alma (Anchors Aweigh) Canova.

It hardly seems possible that these intelligent, (Who discovered Lake Champlain? — dunno!) serious, (Who threw that spitball?) honorable, (What's the answer to the fifth question?) mature, (Call for your comic book after class), young men and women are the same shrinking, silly little monsters that first haunted the corridors of M. H. S. four short years ago.

Prophecy of Class of '47

CHARLES JURGELEWICZ
JO ANNE ST. AMAND

MAE SHING
FRED JOHNSON

In a city hospital in New York, we find Agnes Alger, registered nurse, on the job, although we hear that her spare time is taken up studying about "Wood". Also we hear that she may be given the position of head supervisor of nurses. We predicted as much!

The cook in the Seafood Grill in Boston is none other than Celesta Athanasiou, and we hear that her friend Olive Beal visits her quite often when not working in Walker's.

Our old pal Joe Picone is doing a big business out West selling shoes. His specialty? Suede shoes, naturally!

My, what competition! Three beauty shops have opened in town, and the beauticians are Dotty Charron, Delores Wilmot, and Phyllis Wilbur. Phil's shop is at Everett Square, and we hear that it is a wonderful location for a certain "ray". Could it be that the other girls have other interests besides hair-dressing?

Having bought out Swifty's Gas Station, Jimmy Martins has really enlarged it. Not only does he do a big Cape business in the summer, but it is rumored that Nemasket Transportation has so many trucks that Jimmy has to store them in his extra space. How about that, "Tiger?"

Ginny Gates, buzzing around in her new "Chevy-Baker," is still taking the gang to basketball games. She "Wood" charge fares, but after "Al" she can afford it, being private secretary to "Gauthier's Russian Five."

Big "Rutt" Snowden has inherited his brother Frank's bowling alleys and is doing great. In his spare time, he is taking flying lessons.

As reporter of the Daily Bugle, Jean Graham covers all the news of interest. Some of it is pretty exciting, too, but she loves every minute of it.

While waiting for the Navy to come home, Alice Murdoch is an office worker in a textile company. She visits quite often with Alice Nourse, who owns a restaurant on the Cape, and we hear that the steaks are "delicious".

Tune in tonight and hear our versatile little quarterback, Al Gauthier, giving a play by play description of the night game between McBride's Giants and the Detroit Tigers. Al is really a busy little beaver. During the fall he is playing for the Yanks. He uses the excuse of spring training down South to get away so he can go salt water fishing.

When that girl goes after something, she really attains her goal. That's Saint, of course, who is a very good dancer, too. Right, Jo Anne? It couldn't be that you learned that in Taunton, could it? She is currently appearing in Taunton, describing some of her more vivid assignments. The Taunton audiences certainly ought to appreciate her, too.

Have you seen our own Danny Anacki smiling forth on the billboards, advertising Pepsodent? Still smiling at the girls as they go by, Danny?

In a hospital in Boston we find Betty Colvin and Theresa Duphily as registered nurses. We'll bet they are good ones, too. Who could remain down in the dumps listening to Theresa's comical jokes? Also at the hospital is Majorie Pike, who makes frequent trips to the old home town between cases.

Hugh Bigelow, Representative from Massachusetts, just introduced a bill to prevent the sale of explosive ingredients. He was seen in the Congressional Grill dining, as usual, with a certain Titian Blond.

As supervisor for the Lobl Manufacturing Company, Bernice Farley always gets the work out on time. She has perfected a sure-fire method for getting employees to do their best work!

Paul Horsman has developed that strong right arm for a very good reason! He needs to subdue the big cats under the "Big Top."

Dotty Gamache, who is California bound, is sticking to Route 66. Remember to get us Alan Ladd's Autograph!

Fred Johnson, noted for his affinity for speed at M. H. S., has really made it pay off. Between classes, as director of the Civil engineering department at the University of Illinois, Fred burns up the track at Indianapolis Speedways.

Notice to working mothers: "Just leave your children at Beverly Farley's Nursery, and you are sure to secure the best of care for them."

Memorial High School enjoyed an unusual assembly last Friday. Richard Millette, the noted collector of Indian relics, displayed his collection which he acquired along the banks of the Nemasket.

Doris Morrone's Beauty Parlor specializes in Cold Waves. Girls, here's our chance to look beautiful by patronizing a former classmate.

Big Pete Leonard has joined Horsie and amazes the people with his strong-man act in the same Big Top." People don't even remember Charles Atlas any more. Leonard now holds the world on his shoulder with his powerful right arm.

As a switchboard operator, Pauline Howard gets to know all the phone numbers. She even connects calls from "Kalamazoo"!

Ralph Baker is the President's right-hand man in Moscow, and is going to take a refresher course at Harvard in preparation for his forthcoming publication entitled "All I See Is Red."

In order to be an airplane hostess, you have to have special qualifications. Elaine Rogers looks mighty trim in the uniform of the Pan-American Airways as she flies daily to Rio.

Big Dave Smarsh is using the wing he developed raising chickens to good advantage. He is doing a good part of the hurling and kicking for the Boston Yanks.

In a small white cottage in South Carver, we find Mrs. Harry Morris (the former Alvina Joncas) busily cooking dinner for her husband. We hear she is a good cook, too.

Some spring day when the south wind is blowing, drive on the new road and see our old pal, "Sonny" Campbell. He has so many chickens on his farm now, that he's giving them away to his old classmates. His chickens are laying eggs as big as the footballs he used to recover. Boy, what a college education will do for some people!

School isn't anything to "sigh" about when you have a swell teacher like Evelyn Snow, is it, kids? Evelyn believes in progressive education and is doing a marvelous job as a faculty member at her old Alma Mater.

We hear that the "Angel's" understudy is our own Robert Bump: He is making his debut at the A. O. H. Hall in Brockton next week.

When not teaching music to her pupils, Nancy "Tripps" over to Taunton. We wonder why?

Have you followed the amazing season of "Dapper's Mighty Eleven" at Tulane? After playing pro football for four years for the Yanks, McDonald is the coach to bring about such a marvelous season. Coach McDonald stresses one point in athletics—his boys must have high averages in all subjects, or no football!

Looking for a way to invest your money? See Jeanne Mallet, who is cashier at the National Bank. Her commercial training at M. H. S. before graduation has helped her immeasurably, she says.

Have you had a turkey dinner lately? If not, visit "Hurd's Turkey Farm." An excellent dinner is the result of long training under Mr. Reed in the agricultural department.

In Washington, D. C., we find that Alma Canova is a private secretary to a lawyer. By the way, how's the navy, Alma?

Beatrice Brooks has graduated from business college and is employed by a business concern in N. Y. She constantly keeps in touch with Anna Gola, who travels around the world getting trade for her rubber company.

"Tiger" Nichols, manager of the Nemasket Trucking Co., has added several trucks to his business to facilitate hiring all his old friends. Mr. Nichols makes frequent trips to Providence to revisit the scene of his football successes while a student at Brown University. He takes some of his precious hours from the business to help in coaching the present line. He sparks that line with his now famous slogan "49-50 or fight."

Joy is having a "gay" time trying to learn those Irish songs, so that she can please all concerned. Residing in Edgartown, she paints poetic pictures of things in Glocca Moura.

Speaking of painting pictures in poetry, "Pepper" Martin has become a second Sara Teasdale, and is having her poetic inspirations printed by Houghton, Mifflin, and Co., of Stephanianville, N. Y.

Professor McLure has recently startled the world by harnessing the atom. His atom pill will do everything from homework to running a passenger liner at a tremendous rate of speed.

Let's flash the camera ahead ten years or so, and see Jean Anderson in Carnegie Hall. She has just made her musical debut before a crowd of five thousand pleased critics. She has been acclaimed the number one concert pianist of the nation. (All booking agents interested should write her manager, c/o Plymouth, Mass.)

Dev is head instructor of physical education at Regis College, her old Alma Mater, and rumor has it that she's really putting her heart into her work. Oh well, she always was good in sports, anyway.

Bill Washburn, now known as the "Red-hot Redhead," has recently been polled the best trumpet man of all time. He got his start with the Kennedy combine and climbed rapidly to stardom.

Carl Metzler, who started work on our local paper, has really expanded. He is now known as W. R. Hearst, II.

After many happy college years, Carol "I love life" Chaplain is holding down the position of Dean of Women at Montaque University. She can't seem to stay away from Montaque, even now. It's a flash-back from high school days.

Who do you think is the highest paid insurance man of today? Who but that glib-talking Mansfield Whitney, who sold the whole English IV-A class insurance policies during the speech unit!

Nurse McBane is head nurse at the Jonathan "Reed-y" hospital in Wareham. I would guess that many of her patients are heart sick, and know that she's a sure cure.

George "Wood" and did! He is now playing star halfback for the Boston Yanks. Due to his handsome appearance and flashy playing, we hear he is drawing some of the biggest "Gates" in history.

A graduate of Syracuse University, Pat Charbonneau is an associate conductor with Shirley Wright in the Donald Dodge Auditorium in Springfield, Mass.

James Cadorette has made a big mark in the sports world for such a small fellow. He is now playing center field for the C. A. C. (Cahoon's Athletic Club) and is really having a good time. No wonder!

Ricey is now being heard over station WDRF as the new, the better, the more convincing Della Stallis. She can turn on the tear-drops like nothing at all. The show is now being sponsored by Romans and Mills, Inc.

The impossible has been done! A 600 H. P. Diesel engine weighing 65 pounds has been invented. When asked about his engine, Lee said, "I was lucky things came out 'Coe-pasetic'."

Vocalist for one of the nation's top-flight dance bands is "Dewy," who has many limited engagements and tours, but we're willing to bet you "Eddie" money that she'll soon consent to a permanent engagement with a certain big league pitcher.

All the bank clerks in Massachusetts are paying strict attention to business since Clifton Cordeiro has been appointed head of the accounting department for Massachusetts State Banks by the new government. This new government, in case you haven't heard, is headed by that silver-tongued orator, Bill Johnson. Bill doubtless got his experience in English class.

Flo Varney may be seen as the wife of a very successful coach on some big college campus. She has always been interested in sports anyway, and the marriage home suits her fine!

Alan Dodge, forsaking his engineering career, has really cashed in on his title of Class Wit. He is now pulling down three dollars a week for the radio show. His theme song is "June Comes Around Every Year". He is occasionally assisted by Leo Gerrior in a blackface role. Leo got his experience working on a local coal truck.

Phyl Austin has become an authority on English usage and politics. If you ever want to know the correct answer to a given problem, just ask Phyl. As she often remarked, "There are two answers to every problem; mine, and the wrong one."

We hear that Ovell Bennett has opened a big chemical research laboratory in New York. This lab is said to be one of the biggest in the country, and Bennett is a most capable director.

Claire O'Melia, the noted lab technician, has become a top-flight specialist in her field of endeavor, but still admits keen interest in certain sports. She is still drinking milk to gain weight, but remains just as tiny as ever, lucky girl!

James O'Brien is currently the cause for all unfinished housework. For what wife will work when the thrilling new drama, "Joy's other Husband" is on the air starring Jim.

Barbara Ronan is happily married and doesn't mind staying in after hours now that she isn't told: "Miss Ronan, you're staying after school today, I believe."

Louis Mello has opened a new market in the Old Home Town called Mello's Middleboro Market. Prices are cheap they say, for with every purchase the girls can run their fingers through Louis's hair.

Bev Sturgis has joined the Waves, always having had a partiality for the navy, and the early morning hours remind her of "down on the farm". She has had the motto of the waves changed to "Fido Forever".

From his sentimental role in the Senior Play, Jim Hargraves went straight to Hollywood where he has become a second Alan Ladd. He is currently worrying the girl in "I'll Always Love You, Jean".

Mae Shing, always a leader in high school activities, is author of the new book entitled "How to Hold Office and Influence Teachers." From the latest reports we hear that Kenny Hopkins is living and loving a dangerous life. He's playing around with live wires as an electrician.

Frances Murdoch is working in North Plymouth as a private secretary to a certain Mr. Berardi, and rumor has it that she's dedicated her life to the job.

Carlon Leland and Almon Jacob have continued their friendship right on from M. H. S. days and are now running an industrial art school where they do all types of work.

Besides being an efficient secretary, Elaine Harris is the co-authoress of the Green Years with John Johnson.

Charles Jurgelewicz is making his fortune early in life. He has now settled down and is running a super de luxe soda fountain just for the enjoyment of it.

Have you read George Perry's latest solution to the world's problems in the new best seller A Boxcar View of the World? George has been enjoying the solitude of his big home in the Maine woods.

The outstanding artist, Nelson Sherman, is back in town painting the murals for the new high school. We hear that his exhibit in the Museum of Fine Arts was very well received.

Bert Richmond has opened a new snack bar at a local summer resort. It is known as "Skipper's Haven," and crowds of local people, as well as tourists, patronize it.

Rosemarie Quigley, whose dancing with Fred was super, even in high school days, has made a great career of her talent. "Boots" is currently appearing in the new play on Broadway entitled Souza's Ragtime Band.

Many people have been enjoying southern fried chicken at the South Middleboro farm of the Lavallees, Wilfred and Eleanor. It is famous for miles around, and his success Wilfred attributes to his agricultural training by Mr. Reed.

One of Arthur Murray's most apt teachers, Bea Austin, has a modern dance studio in Plymouth. The new dancing star "Hank", who appeared at Middleboro Town Hall last week, is one of her former pupils who has risen to fame.

Robert Dann, the new superintendent of the Plymouth Shoe Company, has devised a new method of skinning hides from cows. This was a method learned from skinning frogs in Mr. Kunces's biology class.

The new painting of the President of the United States which has recently been added to the White House Gallery was painted by the eminent portrait artist, Ida Furlan. Happy-go-lucky "Saulty" is seen constantly with a certain young man in town, and right on the job is "Cupid", too. Her training in Tripp's has aided her in becoming an expert dietician.

In Boston, Shirley Bessey has opened a soda fountain, and we hear they have swell double-decker sundaes. We must drop in for one, but after ten years out of high school, we begin to watch our calories.

As private secretary to J. C. Vanderbuilt, Flora Bernier gets two months' vacation with pay. After handling the affairs of such an important personage for 10 months, she really needs it, though.

Last Will and Testament of the Class of 1947

CLAIRE O'MELIA

We the most illustrious, amiable, and athletically inclined class ever to pass through the portals of M. H. S., realizing that we are the only class sound in mind and body, do ordain and establish this gilt-edged document to be our last will and testament.

We, the outstanding class of '47, knowing that it will be used in the future, leave our slogan, "So it's never been done before — we'll do it" to the "Give us time — we're young yet", juniors, hoping that they will be as original as we were.

Dapper MacDonald and his "Whiz Kids" leave their trophies and undefeated record as a goal for next year's team in hopes that they will be able to do half as well.

The Senior Play cast does will and bequeath its natural talents for acting to next year's amateurs, knowing full well that no class will reach such heights of stardom.

The graduating class in doing its bit toward public safety, leaves to Miss Erickson a new 1947 model, and in so doing impresses upon her that old familiar statement "It's purely mechanical."

The female athletes do will and bequeath their time-worn uniforms to the unfortunate gals of future years.

Agnes Alger leaves her ability to make and keep friends to all the (ahem) shy students of M. H. S.

We bequeath to M. H. S. Claire Devlin's staccato sneeze to echo through the corridors of this famed school along with the laughter of the Class of '47.

Lee Norton, president of the Student Council, does will and bequeath to the future president of this organization his air of authority and his brilliant orations.

Our Senior Class he-men, those of the Hercules variety, will their brawn to the freshmen who sorely need it.

George Wood bequeaths his curly hair to all the underclassmen sporting crew-cuts so that they too will be a hero in the eyes of the females.

That magnetic duo of Varney and Gates leave their ability to make so many social visits to the office to any enterprising undergraduate who would like to break the record.

Bev. (I had an operation) Sturgis bequeaths her gift of gab to Phyllis Holt, realizing that she will put it to good use.

Pete Dodge, Phyllis Austin, Mansfield Whitney, Barbara Ronon, and Jo Anne St. Amand leave their witty talents to Mr. March in order that he may better use his library of jokes.

Our superb musicians will their musical talents to the energetic sophomores, hoping that they will add rather than detract from Mr. Churchill's classes.

Popular man about town, Bill Washburn, leaves his book of "lines" that never failed, to up-and-coming Dick Westgate. The book is entitled YOU BRING OUT THE SAVAGE IN ME.

We bequeath Danny Anacki's blush to all the future students of M. H. S. who no doubt will have need of it before they graduate.

We, the class of '47, have drawn up this, our last will and testament, and have had it witnessed by four capable and well-known members of the faculty.

We, the undersigned, realizing the hidden potentialities of this great class, have hereby witnessed this document to be the last will and testament of the Class of 1947.

Girls' League

LILLIAN O'NEIL, Faculty Adviser

MAE SHING, President
BETTIE ANN WAITE, Vice President
THERESA DUPHILY, Publicity Chairman
JEAN HORNBY, Hospitality Chairman

CLAIRE O'MELIA, Secretary
JUNE COOPER, Treasurer
FRANCES MURDOCH, Civic Chairman
BARBARA MARTIN, Social Chairman

The Girls' League, following the custom established in years past, sponsored several momentous affairs during the school year. At the Christmas Assembly, a short religious play, entitled "The Christmas Mother," was presented. On February 11, a Mother-Daughter Valentine Tea was held. One of the outstanding events of the season, the annual Girls' League Formal took place on March 7.

As part of its service, the League sent gifts and cards to girls who had been ill for any period of time.

First row: Mae Shing, Claire O'Melia, Miss O'Neil, Bettie Ann Waite, June Cooper.

Future Farmers of America

STANLEY REED, Adviser

EINAR EDLUND, Vice-President
RICHARD MORSE, Treasurer
ROBERT KINNEY, Watch Dog

ROBERT JOHNSON, President
IRVING MINOTT, Secretary
WILLIAM BYRNE, Reporter

The Future Farmers of America is a national organization with membership composed of vocational agriculture students. The aim of the organization is to stimulate students to lead in the raising of the standards of the farmers of the future.

In addition to its academic work, the club carries on as complete a program as possible in social, sport, and civic activities. Also, state-wide individual and chapter competition are held in public speaking and in judging agricultural stock and products. State and national conventions take place each year at which social contacts, educational programs, and self-government are the aims.

Walter Sampson Chapter of the Pro Merito Society

ANNA C. ERICKSON, Adviser

OVELL BENNETT, President

JOY COBB, Secretary

The Pro Merito Society is one of the most important organizations of the school, since it gives recognition to students who have maintained a high standard of scholarship during their four years of high school. A final average of at least eighty-five per cent was attained by the boys and girls of M. H. S. who have been admitted to the group, and that scholarship is often an indication of general ability is proved here by the extent to which they have led and participated in many other activities of the school.

Faculty of Memorial High School

Lunchroom

MISS CARRIE LUIPOLD, Dietician — ERNEST THOMAS, Administrator

MRS. WALTER WEEMAN, MRS. MARSHALL SNOW, and MRS. MYLES S. ALDEN, Assistant Dieticians

With only a slight increase in the cost to the students, the lunchroom staff has continued to serve the same attractive meals, often including the meat dishes once impossible because of war-time restrictions. An an innovation in this year's routine, the sandwiches are made in the lunchroom department. Mrs. Alden is a new member of the staff.

Third row: Beatrice Brooks, Agnes Murdoch, Rita Britton, Eleanor Connolly, Joyce Caldwell, Ann O'Neil, Shirley Tanguay, Marjorie Guidiboni.

Newswriters' Club

MARGARET H. RYDER, Faculty Adviser

ALMA CANOVA, Editor — RICHARD HELEEN, Assistant Editor

DOROTHY MURPHY, Secretary

The Newswriters' Club is an organization of students whose interest and abilities lie in the field of writing. The purpose of the club is to bring high school activities before the public eye by printing a weekly column in the Middleboro Gazette.

Traffic Squad

SAMUEL DEICH, Faculty Adviser

WILLIAM JOHNSON, ALFRED GAUTHIER, Chiefs

An efficient group which helps maintain order in the halls of M. H. S., the Traffic Squad has been supervised this year by Mr. Deich and, as one of its important tasks, has rearranged the auditorium seating plan to provide a special section for the choir. On assembly days, the traffic squad members have summoned each room separately in order to avoid congestion in the corridors. To provide the conditions of a real emergency and to promote an orderly as well as a rapid clearing of the building, fire drills have been conducted with an exit or stairway blocked.

Senior Play

RACHEL ALDEN, Dramatic Coach

ELLIOT R. ALLEN, Business Manager

EVELYN SNOW, Student Director

The senior play was a great success, thanks to the able direction of Miss Alden and to the skill of the happy-go-lucky cast of thirteen. A sparkling and convincing presentation of the laughter and heartache of teen-age life, "June Mad" seemed well suited to the talents of Claire Rice (Penny Wood) and James O'Brien (Chuck Harris), who played the leading teen-age parts. Mansfield Whitney gave a skillful portrayal of Roger Van Vleck, villain of the story, while Claire Devlin was excellent in the part of Penny's mother.

First row: Alan Dodge (Dr. Wood), Claire Rice,, James O'Brien, Claire Devlin, James Hargraves (G. Mervyn Roberts).

Third row: Miss Alden, Joy Cobb (Make-up), Agnes Alger (Prompter), Almon Jacob (Stage Settng), James Reynolds (Lighting), Alma Canova (Publicity), Evelyn Snow, and Mr. Allen.

Office Machine Course

ESTHER L. MOORE, Faculty Supervisor

Under the able guidance of Mrs. Moore, the commercial students have completed successfully their first year of organized banking. All money received from various school organizations has been handled according to approved banking procedure. In addition, the pupils have had valuable training in the use of numerous business machines.

Standing: Agnes Schobel, Barbara Shurtleff, Alice Murdoch, Shirley Tanguay, Jeanne Mallett, Mrs. Moore, Pauline Howard.

Seated: Elaine Harris, Frances Murdoch, Alice Nourse, and Marjorie Guidoboni.

Saddle Club

STANLEY REED, Faculty Adviser

ANITA LEWIS, President

JUNE COOPER, Secretary-Treasurer

LORRAINE GORRIE, Vice-President

A club organized this year for girls interested in riding and in the care and breeding of horses is the Saddle Club. The fifteen members, about half of whom own their own horses, have drawn up a constitution for their club and are functioning under the direction of Stanley Reed, agricultural director at M. H. S. Meetings are devoted to the discussion of topics of interest to the group and to the showing of instructive movies. Several social events have been sponsored.

On ground: Joan Dupre, Barbara Smith, Lois Cole, Nancy Mercer.

On fence: Lorraine Gorrie, Jeanne Pittsley, Mary Gravelin, Anita Mendell.

On horseback: Anita Lewis, Natalie Lang, June Cooper.

Cheerleaders

EVELYN WHITTY, Faculty Adviser

FLORENCE VARNEY, Head Cheerleader

Responsible for upholding the morale of M. H. S. athletes and for awakening school spirit in the spectator-students, this year's group of cheerleaders designed new uniforms and earned them by selling programs at the football games. In working out cheers, the girls have aimed for shorter and livelier numbers in their repertoire. The nine cheerleaders and five freshman understudies were led during the 1946 football season by Jean Dewhurst and during the basketball season by Florence Varney.

Student Librarians

MARGARET DODGE, Librarian

Under the able supervision of Mrs. Dodge, the student librarians have been taught how to care for the library according to the principles of elementary library science. In the months since the reading room has been located in room 28, it has become one of the most popular and attractive parts of the school.

Co-operation between towns and school libraries has been increased this year with many more public library books borrowed for the convenience of faculty and students. The training of a student librarian is also being considered by members of the Middleboro library staff.

VIRGINIA LEWIS, LILLIAN O'NEIL, Faculty Advisers

AGNES ALGER, Editor-in-chief PHYLLIS HOLT, Assistant Editor

JO ANNE ST. AMAND, Treasurer

EVELYN SNOW, CHARLES JURGELEWICZ, Business Managers

Opening the year with a subscription drive that resulted in an increase of sales over last year's campaign, the business department of the Sachem also "went to town" in regard to the advertisements which support the magazine. Overcoming the shortage of volunteer typists, which delayed the magazine a great deal, the Sachem always managed to get to press. The business managers and their staff have continued their work under the direction of Miss O'Neil, while the other departments worked with their new adviser, Miss Lewis.

Student Council

ELLIOT ALLEN, Faculty Adviser

CHARLES JURGELEWICZ, Vice-president LEE NORTON, President

GEORGE WOOD, Treasurer JOY COBB, Secretary

With Mr. Allen as adviser and Lee Norton as president, this year's Student Council has continued to strive for the same high goals. The organization regulates extra-curricula activities and takes on various other projects, which this year included a clean-up campaign and an attempt to promote good sportsmanship at games. The high lights of the season were two conventions, one held in Plymouth last fall and attended by the officers, and the other, a spring session at Rockland, attended by the underclassmen.

'47

Boys' Basketball

ALFRED FARLEY, Head Coach

HENRY BATTIS, Assistant Coach — JOSEPH C. KUNCES, Freshman Coach

RICHARD McDONALD, Captain

With the end of football, basketball took the spot light and gave Middleboro one of the finest teams ever to represent the school. After rolling through the regular schedule of eighteen games, the "Whiz Kids" went on to cop the South Shore Tournament and to receive an invitation to the Tech Tourney in the Boston Garden. This was the first time in the history of the school that either of these honors had been achieved.

As for the team itself, it displayed the finest all round team-work possible. The class of '47 was well represented, with four of the five being seniors. Middleboro will have other fine basketball teams, but it will be hard to compare them too the championship 1947 quintet, which was undefeated in eighteen regular games and which won three out of four tourney games.

Girls' Hockey and Basketball

VIRGINIA BARTLETT, Coach — EVELYN WHITTY, Assistant Coach

Getting under way shortly after school opened, varsity hockey players found that, after an easy summer, conditioning drills were necessary. These, along with technique practice, followed under the excellent supervision of Miss Bartlett and Miss Whitty, who taught the defensive and offensive players respectively. Jean Dewhurst and Florence Varney were elected co-captains. The standing for the season was two wins, two ties, and one defeat.

Opening the season with a victory over Wareham and electing Claire O'Melia and Agnes Algeas co-captains, the first team fared well all through the season. This was due to the combined efforts of Miss Bartlett and Miss Whitty, who coached the forwards and guards respectively. The final record for the Middleboro firsts was five wins, and, at the hands of Oliver Ames of North Easton, two losses. Claire Devlin with 69 points to her credit was the high scorer. Orchids to her and the rest of the team for a successful season.

The second team enjoyed a less successful season but are not downcast. With a year's experience behind them, they cheerfully expect a successful season next year.

Football

HENRY BATTIS, Head Coach — ALFRED E. FARLEY, Assistant Coach

DAVID SMARSH and WILLIAM WASHBURN, Co-Captains

During the first weeks of September, 1946, the practice field of Middleboro High was the scene of training for the school's football squad. With keen competition for many positions bolstered by the return of several illustrious senior lettermen, the building of a fine team seemed inevitable. Starting the season inauspiciously with a 13-7 loss to Stetson High, Middleboro gathered speed as the year progressed, and the final analysis showed five wins, two losses, and three ties. Featured in the team's victories were a 7-6 win over Plymouth, and an 18-0 upset over Taunton High, and, of course, the cherished victoory over Bridgewater, 18-0, which gave our school the first leg on the new Lion's trophy.

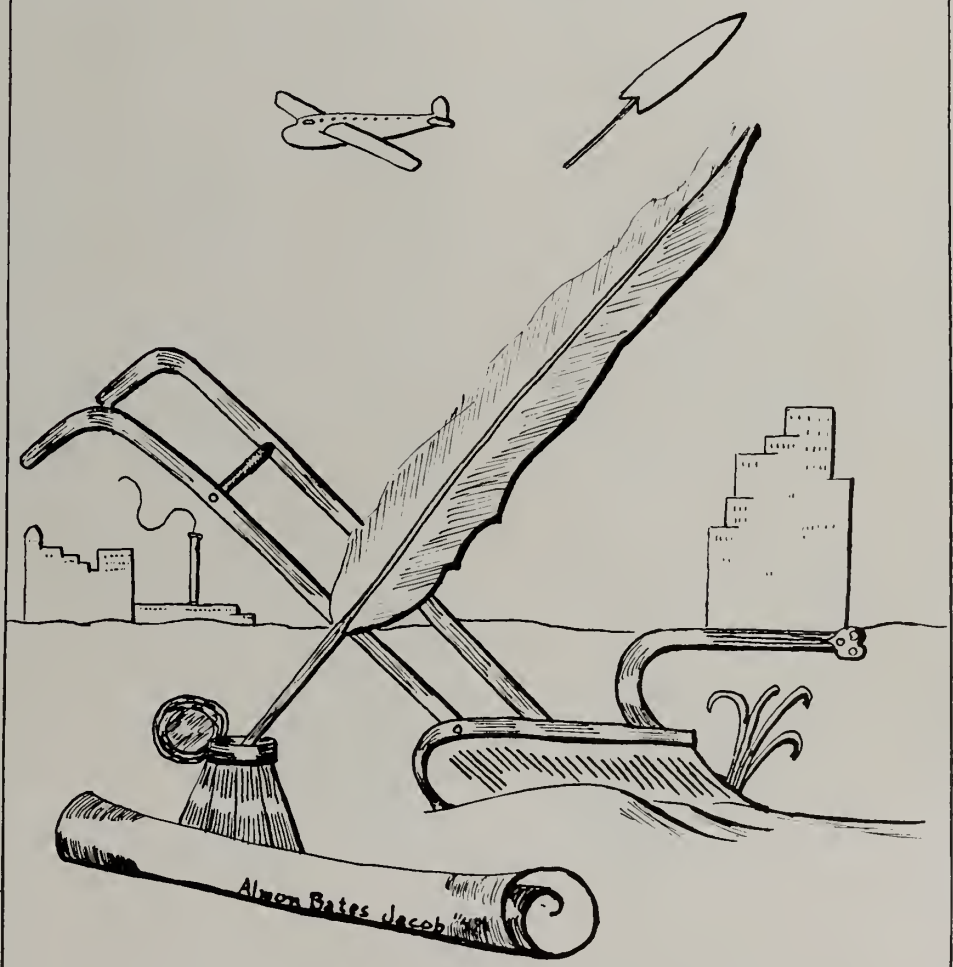
GRADUATION



Essay and Salutatory

ALMA CANOVA

BARUCH SPINOZA, A MAN AMONG MEN

Superintendent Cushing, Principal March, teachers, parents, and friends: Now that we of the Class of '47 have arrived at the end of our high school days, we would like to thank you for all you have done for us. We know the past four years have required as much effort on your part as they have on ours. We want you to know we are grateful for all the guidance you have given us and hope we will live up to your expectations.

For my classmates and myself I'd like to say to you, "Hello. Glad to see you."

"All noble things are as difficult as they are rare." The man who said that sacrificed his entire life for the attainment of a goal, so he knew what he was speaking of.

You'd like that man. Spinoza was his name — Baruch Spinoza. He was a philosopher, but don't let that frighten you because philosophers are human — perhaps more human than most of us because of their intense interest in and nearness to life.

Baruch Spinoza, who lived in Holland in the 17th century, is considered one of the greatest philosophers of all times. He developed a new theory called "Spinozism" whereby God is the world. Each blade of grass, each lowly worm, and each thought of man, according to Spinoza, are important parts in the eternal pattern of God. Most philosophers since his time have shown traces of Spinozism. The German philosopher Hegel went so far as to say that "to be a philosopher one must first be a Spinozist."

As a small boy, Baruch Spinoza was taken to Amsterdam by his Portugese-Jewish parents who were escaping persecution. He and his two sisters were educated in the Jewish faith, but Baruch was a deep thinker and soon found he could not be satisfied with the beliefs of his church. As a result, he was excommunicated from the Synagogue and disowned by his family, With this, he changed his name Baruch, meaning "blessed," to its Lat'n equivalent, Benedict.

Like all Jewish boys of that time, Spinoza was taught a trade — that of polishing lenses. He earned his living in this manner. In fact, he gained a reputation as an optician long before he was recognized as a philosopher.

Most of Spinoza's life was spent studying; he had no thoughts of romance. His name has been coupled romantically with that of the daughter of one of his professors, but this idea has been disproved.

Spinoza lived alone for the most part, but was a friendly person. He was a very cordial host to those friends who visited him, although he never took the time to call on others. He liked drawing and drew charcoal portraits of his friends and himself. His amusements were simple. He enjoyed smoking his pipe, and he spent many hours watching spiders build their webs as he spun the threads of his own philosophy. The quarrels of spiders were a constant source of entertainment for him, but the greater part of his day was spent in severe mental work.

Upon the death of his father, Spinoza's greedy sisters endeavored to squeeze him out of his share of the inheritance on the ground that he was an outcast and a heretic. He took the case to court, won, and then turned the money over to his sisters. Spinoza's interest in the matter was entirely for justice, not money, for Baruch Spinoza was not a lover of worldly goods. His love lay in God.

Spinoza soon began to be recognized for his remarkable mind. One of the few books to be published during his lifetime was his Tractatus Theologico-Politicus, which came out when he was thirty-eight years of age. This book advocates complete freedom of speech and thought, and constitutes an early attempt at Biblical criticism. Now, at a time when freedom of speech and thought are major issues, it is interesting to note that this man, in the 17th century, was looking forward to the time when these two freedoms would be practiced universally. The ideas in this book were too revolutionary for the people of his day to accept or even tolerate. Consequently, the volume was met with stormy protest.

Spinoza was once offered a chair of philosophy at the University of Heidelberg, but refused, feeling that in this position it would be impossible for him to maintain a complete freedom for the expression of his views.

The man's greatest work is his book Ethics in which he sets forth a merciful God in a New Testament of his own. This book is an excellent example of the universal mentality of the philosopher. Composed in Latin and in geometric form, it is Greek in its idealism, Italian in its content (based upon the pantheism of Bruno), French in its foundation (developing the theory of Descartes), and Hebrew in its faith.

Spinoza had never been robust and had for years been suffering from a disease of the lungs which, in those days, never allowed its victims to escape. All that was mortal of Baruch Spinoza quietly passed away one Sunday afternoon when the man was in his forty-fourth year. During his last few hours he must not have been sad, for he believed in the glorious immortality of the soul He must have been comforted by the thought that he had accomplished his goal and had pointed out to mankind the road to complete happiness. Louis Untermeyer had in mind a man like Spinoza when he wrote:

"From compromise and things half-done
Keep me, with stern and stubbon pride;
And when, at last, the fight is won,
God, keep me still unsatisfied."

Essay and Valedictory

EVELYN SNOW

EMILY DICKINSON, AMERICAN POET

I'm nobody! Who are you?
Are you nobody, too?
Then there's a pair of us—don't tell!
They'd banish us, you know.

If I read a book, and it makes my whole body so cold no fire can ever warm me, I know that is poetry.

These were the words of Emily Dickinson, a poet whose face was dominated by large haunting eyes, who had hair the color of bronze chestnut, and a bubbling personality. If you've heard of her before, you probably think she's a little queer—I don't blame you. A woman who lived in seclusion in Amherst, always wore white, and poured her emotions into poetry does seem queer until you understand what made her that way.

Up until the time she went to college, her life followed an ordinary course. She was born on December 10, 1830, in the forbidding atmosphere of a Puritan household, and went through school without any difficulty. If she were in school today, we would envy her ability, especially in writing compositions.

After attending Amherst Academy, her ambition to go to Mt. Holyoke was fulfilled. There she discovered her inability to believe in the Puritan religion as others around her did. She had not yet made her peace with God as all other good Puritans did. Her attitude toward church was:

Some keep the Sabbath going to church,
I keep it staying at home
With a bobolink for a chorister
And an orchard for a dome.

College over, she went home to take an active part in the town life. She began a search for someone who could give her intellectual and spiritual guidance. On a trip to Washington, she found that someone, but he was married. In her day, divorces weren't thought of, and a girl just went home with a broken heart to recover as best she could. Her words to describe the affair were:

I asked no other thing, no other was denied.

In other words, the one thing she really wanted was denied her.

When your world is torn, and you don't know where to turn, what do you do? Some of us play the piano or go for a walk—Emily Dickinson turned to poetry as an outlet for her emotions.

At home, following her disappointment, she began to prefer privacy, a natural thing for a New England spinster. This preference, however, grew into a fear of prying eyes. Her soul selected its own society, then shut the door. To live was so startling that it left little time for other occupations.

Although she was very much an individual, her poetry was not without the influence of her times. Her instinct for comedy, her language and grammar, her love of exact phrases and words, are all an outgrowth of the times she lived in. For an individual touch, she used off rhyme, that is, used words which at first hearing seem to rhyme but which really don't, and she added flavor to her verses with the use of strange grammar. The chief thing which attracts one to her poems, however, is her ability to express herself. Of a book she says:

There is no frigate like a book
To take us lands away
Nor any coursers like a page
Of prancing poetry.

Notice her use of off-rhyme in this poem. listen to away and poetry.

During her life, she was unwilling to have her poems published—she wouldn't risk the chance of being laughed at. Anyway, according to her:

> Publication is the auction
> Of the mind of man.

She said it was dreary to be somebody and public, like a frog. To settle the matter she says, "If fame belonged to me, I could not escape her." She did have an audience, however: her friends to whom she wrote and enclosed poems; the children to whom she lowered baskets of goodies with a poem attached; and a critic, Thomas Wentworth Higginson, to whom she appealed, "Is my verse alive?" Today she has a large audience, as her poems are very popular and her biography is a best-seller —she's no longer a nobody.

A little world was hers, but since she looked on life as pain leading to death, she didn't think she was missing anything. Her description of her action is:

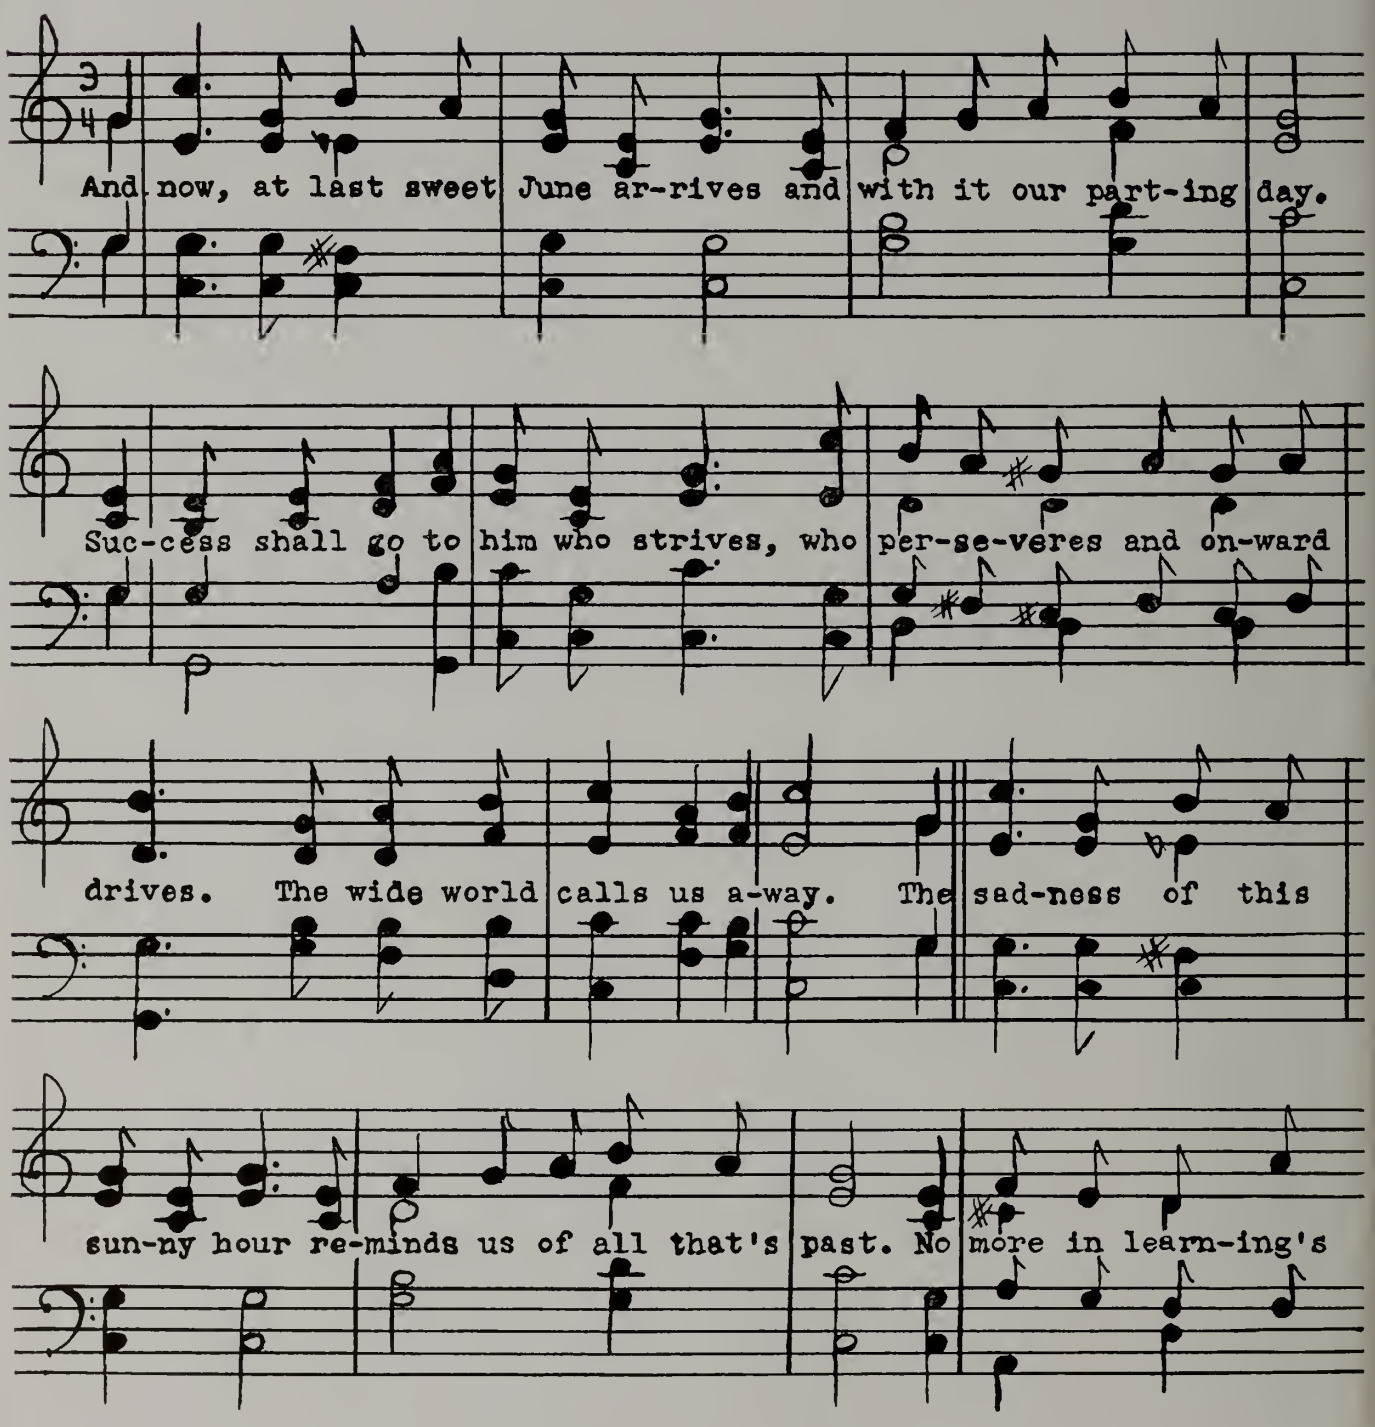
> I took my power in my hand
> And went against the world;
> 'Twas not so much as David had,
> But I was twice as bold.

Queer? Well, Shakespeare once said that all the world is mad. She merely enjoyed a happier, more talented form of madness than we.

VALEDICTORY

It is with regret that we say farewell to M. H. S., for we have made many friends with whom we have had good times. Besides the fun the years have held serious moments. We've seen the end of a war and the beginning of the peace. May we use the things that we have learned to keep that peace and to become better citizens of the world.

CLASS ODE



And now, at last sweet June ar-rives and with it our part-ing day.
Suc-cess shall go to him who strives, who per-se-veres and on-ward drives. The wide world calls us a-way. The sad-ness of this sun-ny hour re-minds us of all that's past. No more in learn-ing's i-vry tow'rs are we confined to-day our class-room guides we cast.

Sep-tem-ber of four years a-go we met for tasks a-head. Now that the task is done we know we did our best no tears be shed. Fare-well!
Fare-well! Fare-well, and so we part. Lead others in our stead!
